"Museums
have some rules"

Museums have some rules.

The rules are very helpful.

They explain to visitors
what they are allowed to do.

Visitors follow the rules.

In the archaeological museum of Igoumenitsa
the rules are these.

Visitors walk

and speak with a low voice.

They can look at the exhibits.

They can also point at them.

While they are in the museum
they keep their juice, water or food inside their bag.

In the museum there are staff members.
They wear name tags.

If I need help from them
I ask for it.

Museums have rules.

The rules explain to visitors
what they can do.

It is important that visitors follow the rules.

This is what I try to do too.
